

Colour Collection

Look around you. Choose a colour that appeals to you. Collect as many different shades of that colour as you can find. You might like to photograph the different shade examples that you find or physically order your samples to show what a range you have discovered.

Feeling creative? You could create a shape or picture made up of the colour shades that you've collected.

